

After You Apply with FEMA, Now What?

Release Date: Janvier 21, 2025

LOS ANGELES – After you apply with FEMA for disaster assistance, you may wonder what comes next. Sometimes, FEMA may call you for more information or to give you an update. Messages from FEMA will arrive by email, phone, or text. You will know the message comes from FEMA if it is from one of the following sources:

- Email from noreply-ecorr@dhs.gov, fema-automessaging@fema.intouchconnections.com or fema-automessaging@fema.dhs.gov.
- Calls from 1-800-621-3362 or 1-866-863-8673. (Sometimes FEMA may call with a recorded voice message to give you information about your application.)
- Texts from 43362 or 91908.

Steps You Can Take to Help Move Your Disaster Recovery Forward

OPEN A FEMA ACCOUNT ONLINE. A useful first step is creating your personal online account with the FEMA Disaster Assistance Center (DAC) at DisasterAssistance.gov. You will be instructed to create a unique Personal Identification Number (PIN) for secure access to your disaster assistance application information. You may hear from FEMA within 10 days of applying or less, although the current demand for disaster assistance in Los Angeles County may briefly slow the process. Meanwhile, with your online account you can:

- Track the status of your application as it is reviewed
- Provide your new address if you moved or other personal information that has changed
- View letters and messages sent to you by FEMA
- Get details on additional documents that FEMA needs to process your assistance
- Submit documents to your file
- Review information you have sent FEMA and update and make corrections

PROVIDE ADDITIONAL DOCUMENTS. Sometimes FEMA may need more information from you. There are three ways to send documents (include your name and application number):

- Online in the Upload Center at DisasterAssistance.gov.
- By mail to FEMA, P.O. Box 10055, Hyattsville, MD 20782-8055.
- Faxing to 1-800-827-8112.

GATHER AND SEND OTHER INFORMATION. FEMA may request more documents or information while your application is being reviewed, for example:

- Verification of your disaster-caused damage through an onsite home inspection and confirm your eligibility for a lodging program.
- Verification of your identity; you may be required to submit supporting documents.

FACILITATE YOUR HOME INSPECTION. After you apply with FEMA, your request for assistance is reviewed to determine if an inspection is needed to confirm disaster-related damage to your home and personal property. FEMA home inspections are conducted in-person or virtually, and the inspector will contact you to make an appointment. If the inspection is in-person, the FEMA inspector will show you an official photo identification and will know your registration number; inspectors will never ask you for it (if asked, don't provide it) There is no fee for the inspection.

BE SURE YOU UNDERSTAND FEMA'S DETERMINATION LETTER. Read your determination letter closely to understand your next steps in the process and what additional documentation may be needed. The determination letter will also provide instructions on how you can appeal FEMA's decision.
