

Claims Office Compensates Debris Removal on Affected Private Properties

Release Date: fév 14, 2025

Individuals and businesses affected by the Hermit's Peak/Calf Canyon Fire, subsequent flooding, mudslides and other cascading effects can be compensated for removing debris from their properties in Mora and San Miguel counties. The debris may include fallen trees and limbs, as well as ash, sand, silt, rocks. and boulders.

Background

The costs to clear debris may be covered under the Hermit's Peak/Calf Canyon Fire Assistance Act. In the past, compensation for debris removal under the Stafford Act was limited to public entities except when debris on private properties created an impediment or hazard to a public asset, such as a road or waterway. The Hermit's Peak/Calf Canyon Fire Assistance Act allows private landowners to seek compensation for labor, disposal fees and other costs incurred from clearing out debris caused by the fire and subsequent flooding.

To be compensated for debris removal, property owners must file a Notice of Loss (NOL) by March 14, 2025, with the FEMA Hermit's Peak/Calf Canyon Claims Office.

Claimants may hire a contractor or remove the debris themselves. Documentation is required that illustrates ownership of or responsibility for the property.

NOTE: Unless included with other compensation, debris removal would generally be compensated based on actual costs incurred.

The Claims Office monitors for duplication of funding with Public Assistance Private Property Debris Removal and previously compensated claims for Reforestation and Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) plans; specifically, plans that include debris removal under “woody residue treatment” or “obstruction removal and debris removal” included in total loss compensation. The Claims Office might elect to conduct a site inspection to verify the scope of the work.
