

Disaster Recovery Centers Open in Breathitt, Clay Counties

Release Date: Mars 7, 2025

FRANKFORT, Ky. -- Disaster Recovery Centers opened on March 7 in Breathitt and Clay counties.

Disaster Recovery Centers, operated by the Kentucky Division of Emergency Management and FEMA, offer in-person support to survivors in declared counties as the result of severe storms, straight-line winds, flooding, landslides and mudslides from February.

FEMA representatives can explain available assistance programs, how to apply to FEMA, and help connect survivors with resources for their recovery needs. The deadline to apply for federal assistance is April 25.

All Disaster Recovery Centers operate Monday through Saturday from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. and on Sundays from 1 to 7 p.m., except the Clay County Disaster Recovery Center, which is closed on Sundays.

In addition to FEMA personnel, representatives from the Kentucky Office of Unemployment Insurance, the Kentucky Department of Insurance and the U.S.

FEMA

Small Business Administration (SBA) will be available at the recovery centers to assist survivors.

If you are unable to visit the center, there are other ways to apply: you can apply online at DisasterAssistance.gov, by calling 800-621-3362, or by using the FEMA mobile app. If you use a relay service, such as Video Relay Service (VRS), captioned telephone or other service, give FEMA the number for that service.

When you apply, you will need to provide:

- A current phone number where you can be contacted.
- Your address at the time of the disaster and the address where you are now staying.
- Your Social Security Number.
- A general list of damage and losses.
- Banking information if you choose direct deposit.
- If insured, the policy number or the agent and/or the company name.

The first step to receive FEMA assistance is to apply.
