Where to Go When FEMA Can't Help? Just dial "2-1-1"

CLANTON, Ala. – FEMA disaster assistance provides grants to help eligible homeowners and renters with temporary housing, essential home repairs, personal property replacement, and essential disaster-related needs. But not all disaster survivors who applied for assistance are eligible; you may be eligible for some aid but may still have unmet needs.

Where can you turn for help? Who can you call? Where can you go?

In Alabama, 2-1-1 Connects Alabama is a shortcut to health and human services agencies that can provide help to individuals and families recovering from the devastation of the March 25-26 Severe Storms and Tornadoes.

By simply dialing "211," those in need of assistance can be referred, and sometimes connected, to appropriate agencies and community organizations. 2-1-1 Connects Alabama works a bit like 911. Calls to 211 are routed to a call center. From there referral specialists use a database of resources from private/public health and human service agencies to match the callers' needs or refer, them directly to an agency or organization that can help.

Below are just some of the services 211 Connects Alabama can help callers' access:

- Basic Human Needs Resources: food banks, clothing, shelters, rent assistance, utility assistance
- Government information: city, county, state services and programs
- Health and Mental Health Resources: health insurance programs, maternal health, medical information lines, crisis intervention services, support groups, counseling, drug and alcohol intervention and rehabilitation
