Q: What are the requirements for a business to be eligible for FEMA assistance?

A: To be eligible for FEMA assistance, a business must be a small business, as defined by the Small Business Administration (SBA). The SBA defines a small business as one that has fewer than 500 employees, depending on the industry. Additionally, the business must be a U.S. citizen or have a principal place of business in the United States. For more information, visit <https://www.fema.gov/business>.

Q: How can I determine if my business is a small business?

A: You can determine if your business is a small business by checking the SBA's size standards. Visit <https://www.sba.gov/size-standards> for more information.

- The SBA's size standards are based on the number of employees or the annual revenue of the business.
- The SBA's size standards vary by industry. For example, the size standard for a manufacturing business is 500 employees, while the size standard for a retail business is $5 million in annual revenue.
- The SBA's size standards are based on the number of employees or the annual revenue of the business, depending on the industry.
