

Mitigation Specialists Offer Advice on Building Storm Resistant Homes in St. Croix

Release Date: ?? 9, 2018

ST. CROIX, Virgin Islands – Free advice is available to Virgin Island survivors who are cleaning up and rebuilding after hurricanes Irma and Maria, including techniques to lessen damage to homes, businesses and property in the event of future storms.

Hazard Mitigation Specialists from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) will be available in the coming days to answer questions on stronger building practices. Rebuilding or repairing a home after a disaster can be a daunting task, but with the right information homeowners can build safer, smarter and stronger against disasters.

Time and location:

- Home Depot, Barron Spot, St. Croix
- Jan. 10 – 14
- Jan. 17 – 22
- 7 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Information will be provided on cleaning up mold and mildew after a storm, as well as tips on how to protect your home against strong winds by securing roofs and siding using special hardware. FEMA encourages those affected by the storms to stop by and learn more about how to prepare for and help prevent damage to your home before a disaster.

Survivors can check on the status of their FEMA claim at DisasterAssistance.gov or by calling 800-621-3362. Individuals who have a speech disability or hearing loss and use TTY should call 800-462-7585 directly. Those who use 711 or Video Relay Service (VRS) may call 800-621-3362. The SBA customer service number is 800-659-2955.
