

Mental Health After the Floods

Release Date: ??? 11, 2023

After a disaster like July's storms, it's normal to feel stressed, anxious or overwhelmed. Here are some resources that can help.

Vermont-Specific

- Visit MentalHealth.vermont.gov/flood to find statewide resources and support, including resources for youth, older adults, people with disabilities and first responders.
- United Way's 2-1-1 Network partners with local organizations, businesses and government agencies to provide resources including mental health care, health and community services, and more. Call 211 or visit Vermont211.org.
- Starting Over Strong VT offers free services for disaster survivors in their homes and community spaces. Outreach workers provide support and counseling, help develop coping strategies, and share resources that can help you recover. To reach them, call 211 or visit MentalHealth.vermont.gov/SOSVT.
- Pathways Vermont Support Line provides confidential, non-judgmental peer-support for Vermonters 18 and older. The line is open 24/7 – to connect, call or text 833-888-2557.
- Crisis Text Line provides free text-based mental health support and crisis intervention. Text "VT" to 741741 or visit CrisisTextLine.org.
- Farm First helps farmers and their families resolve personal and work-related challenges. Farm First counselors provide resources, professional and personal support to help you tackle stress, financial concerns, labor issues, substance use and more. Call 1-877-493-6216 or visit InvestEAP.org/FarmFirst
 - You will be asked to create a login when accessing the site for the first time – enter "farm" as the organization password.
- Vermont Federation of Families for Children's Mental Health helps people up to age 22 experiencing emotional, behavioral or mental health challenges and their families. Call 802-876-7021 or 800-639-6071.
- Also offers a list of county-specific support phone lines at Vermont Local Mental Health Crisis Support Lines & Phone Numbers \(vffcmh.org\)).
